brooks, streams or watercourses or any roads, streets or ways, or raise or sink the level thereof, in order the more conveniently to carry them over or under or by the side of the railway, as the railway administration thinks proper;

(c) make drains or conduits into, through or under any lands adjoining the railway for the purpose of conveying water from or to the railway;

(d) erect and construct such houses, warehouses, offices and other buildings, and such yards, stations, wharves, engines, machinery, apparatus and other works and conveniences as the railway administration thinks proper;

(e) alter, repair or discontinue such buildings, works and conveniences as aforesaid or any of them and substitute others in their stead; and

(f) do all other acts necessary for making, maintaining, altering or repairing and using the railway.

(2) The exercise of the powers conferred on [the railway] administration by sub-section (1) shall be subject to the control of the [Government].

8. [The railway administration] may, for the purpose of exercising the powers conferred upon it by this Act, alter the position of any pipe for the supply of gas, water or compressed air or the position of any electric wire or of any drain not being a main drain:

Provided that—

(a) when the railway administration desires to alter the position of any such pipe, wire or drain, it shall give reasonable notice of its intention to do so, and of the time at which it will begin to do so, to the [local authority or company having control over the pipe, wire or drain, or, when the pipe, wire or drain is not under the control of a local authority or company, to the person under whose control the pipe, wire or drain is;

(b) a local authority, company or person receiving notice under proviso (a) may send a person to superintend the work, and the railway administration shall execute

the work to the reasonable satisfaction of the person so sent and shall make arrangements for continuing during the execution of the work the supply of gas, water, compressed air or electricity or the maintenance of the drainage, as the case may be.

18A. Nothing in the two last preceding sections shall authorise the doing of anything on or to any works, land or building vested in, or in possession of, the Government without its consent.

29.—(1) The Government may authorise any railway administration, in case of any slip or other accident happening or being apprehended to any cutting, embankment or other work under the control of the railway administration, to enter upon any lands adjoining its railway for the purpose of repairing or preventing the accident, and to do all such works as may be necessary for the purpose.

(2) In case of necessity the railway administration may enter upon the lands and do the works aforesaid without having obtained the previous sanction of the Government, but in such a case shall, within seventy-two hours after such entry, make a report to the Government, specifying the nature of the accident or apprehended accident, and of the works necessary to be done, and the power conferred on the railway administration by this sub-section shall cease and determine if the Government, after considering the report, considers that the exercise of the power is not necessary for the public safety.

10.—(1) If the railway administration] shall do as little damage as possible in the exercise of the powers conferred by any of the foregoing provisions of this Chapter, and compensation shall be paid for any damage caused by the exercise thereof.

(2) A suit shall not lie to recover such compensation, but in case of dispute the amount thereof shall, on application to the Collector, be determined and paid in accordance, so far as may be, [with the provisions of sections 11 to 15, both inclusive, sections 18 to 34, both inclusive, and sections 53 and 54 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, and the provisions of sections 51 and 52 of that Act shall apply to the award of compensation].

III. (1) The railway administration shall make and maintain the following works for the accommodation of the owners and occupiers of lands adjoining the railway, namely:

(a) such and so many convenient crossings, bridges, arches, culverts and passages over, under or by the sides of, or leading to or from, the railway as may, in the opinion of the [Government], be necessary for the purpose of making good any interruptions caused by the railway to the use of the lands through which the railway is made, and

(b) all necessary arches, tunnels, culverts, drains, water courses or other passages, over or under or by the sides of the railway, of such dimensions as will, in the opinion of the [Government], be sufficient at all times to convey water as freely from or to the lands lying near or affected by the railway as before the making of the railway, or as nearly so as may be.

(2) Subject to the other provisions of this Act, the work specified in clauses (a) and (b) of sub-section (1) shall be made during or immediately after the laying out or formation of the railway over the lands traversed thereby and in such manner as to cause as little damage or inconvenience as possible to person interested in the lands or affected by the works.

(3) The foregoing provisions of this section are subject to the following provisos, namely:

(a) [The railway] administration shall not be required to make any accommodation works in such a manner as would prevent or obstruct the working or using of the railway, or to make any accommodation works with respect to which the owners and occupiers of the lands have agreed to receive and have been paid compensation in consideration of their not requiring the works to be made;

(b) save as hereinafter in this Chapter provided, [the railway] administration shall not, except on the requisition of the [Government], be compelled to defray the cost of executing any further or additional accommodation works for the use of the owners or occupiers of the lands after the expiration of ten years from the date on which the railway passing through the lands was first opened for public traffic;

(Chapter III.—Construction and Maintenance of Works.)

(c) where [the railway] administration has provided suitable accommodation for the crossing of a road or stream, and the road or stream is afterwards diverted by the act or neglect of the person having the control thereof, the administration shall not be compelled to provide other accommodation for the crossing of the road or stream.

2(4) The [Government] may appoint a time for the commencement of any work to be executed under sub-section (1), and if for fourteen days next after that time the railway administration fails to commence the work or, having commenced it, fails to proceed diligently to execute it in a sufficient manner, the [Government] may execute it and recover from the railway administration the cost incurred by [it] in the execution thereof.

512. If an owner or occupier of any land affected by [the railway] considers the works made under the last foregoing section to be insufficient for the commodious use of the land, or if the [Government] or a local authority desires to construct a public road or other work across, under or over [the railway], he or it, as the case may be, may at any time require the railway administration to make at his or its expense such further accommodation works as he or it thinks necessary and are agreed to by the railway administration or as, in case of difference of opinion, may be authorised by the [Government].

513. The [Government] may require that, within a time to be specified in the requisition, or within such further time as [it] may appoint in this behalf,—

(a) boundary-marks or fences be provided or renewed by [the railway] administration for [the railway] or any part thereof and for roads constructed in connection therewith;

5(b) any works in the nature of a screen near to or adjoining the side of any public road constructed before the making of [the railway] be provided or renewed by a railway administration for the purpose of preventing danger to passengers on the road by reason of horses or other animals being frightened by the sight or noise of the rolling-stock moving on the railway;

1(c) suitable gates, chains, bars, stiles or hand-rails be erected or renewed by 2[the railway] administration at places where 2[the railway] crosses a public road on the level;

3(d) persons be employed by 2[the railway] administration to open and shut such gates, chains or bars.

414.—(1) Where 2[the railway] administration has constructed 2[the railway] across a public road on the level, the 5[Government] may at any time, if it appears to 6[it] necessary for the public safety, require the railway administration, within such time as 7[it] thinks fit, to carry the road either under or over the railway by means of a bridge or arch, with convenient ascents and descents and other convenient approaches, instead of crossing the road on the level, or to execute such other works as, in the circumstances of the case, may appear to the 5[Government] to be best adapted for removing or diminishing the danger arising from the level-crossing.

8(2) The 5[Government] may require as a condition of making a requisition under sub-section (1), that the local authority, if any, which maintains the road, shall undertake to pay the whole of the cost to the railway administration of complying with the requisition or such portion of the cost as the 5[Government] thinks just.

915.—(1) In either of the following cases, namely :

(a) where there is danger that a tree standing near 2[the railway] may fall on the railway so as to obstruct traffic,

(b) when a tree obstructs the view of any fixed signal, the railway administration may, with the permission of any Magistrate, fell the tree or deal with it in such other manner as will in the opinion of the railway administration avert the danger or remove the obstruction, as the case may be.

(2) In case of emergency the power mentioned in sub-section (1) may be exercised by 2[the railway] administration without the permission of a Magistrate.

CHAPTER IV

OPENING OF [THE RAILWAY]

516.—(1) [The railway administration] may, with the previous sanction of the [Government], use upon [the railway] locomotive engines or other motive power, and rolling-stock to be drawn or propelled thereby.

(2) But rolling-stock shall not be moved upon [the railway] by steam or other motive power until such general rules for the railway as may be deemed to be necessary have been made, sanctioned and published under this Act.

17.—(1) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (2), [the railway administration] shall, one month at least before it intends to open any railway for the public carriage of passengers, give to the [Government] notice in writing of its intention.

(Chapter IV.—Opening of Railways.)

(2) The 1[Government] may, in any case, if 2[it] thinks fit, reduce the period of, or dispense with, the notice mentioned in sub-section (1).

18. 3[The railway] shall not be opened for the public carriage of passengers until the 1[Government], or an Inspector empowered by the 1[Government] in this behalf, has by order sanctioned the opening thereof for that purpose.

19.—(1) The sanction of the 1[Government] under the last foregoing section shall not be given until an Inspector has, after inspection of the railway, reported in writing to the 1[Government]—

(a) that he has made a careful inspection of the railway and rolling-stock;

(b) that the moving and fixed dimensions prescribed by the 1[Government] have not been infringed;

(c) that the weight of rails, strength of bridges, general structural character of the works, and the size of and maximum gross load upon the axles of any rolling-stock are such as have been prescribed by the 1[Government];

(d) that the railway is sufficiently supplied with rolling-stock;

(e) that general rules for the working of the railway when opened for the public carriage of passengers have been made, sanctioned and published under this Act; and

(f) that in his opinion, the railway can be opened for the public carriage of passengers without danger to the public using it.

4(2) If in the opinion of the Inspector the railway cannot be so opened without danger to the public using it, he shall state that opinion, together with the grounds therefor, to the 1[Government], and the 1[Government] may thereupon order the railway administration to postpone the opening of the railway.

(3) An order under the last foregoing sub-section must set forth the requirements to be complied with as a condition precedent to the opening of the railway being sanctioned, and shall direct the postponement of the opening of the railway until those requirements have been complied with or the 1[Government] is otherwise satisfied that the railway can be opened without danger to the public using it.

(4) The sanction given under this section may be either absolute or subject to such conditions as the [Government] thinks necessary for the safety of the public.

(5) When sanction for the opening of [the railway] is given subject to conditions, and the railway administration fails to fulfil those conditions, the sanction shall be deemed to be void and the railway shall not be worked or used until the conditions are fulfilled to the satisfaction of the [Government].

20.—(1) The provisions of sections 17, 18 and 19 with respect to the opening of [the railway] shall extend to the opening of the works mentioned in sub-section (2) when those works form part of, or are directly connected with, [the railway] used for the public carriage of passengers and have been constructed after the inspection which preceded the first opening of the railway.

(2) The works referred to in sub-section (1) are additional lines of railway, deviation lines, stations, junctions and crossings on the level, and any alteration or re-construction materially affecting the structural character of any work to which the provisions of sections 17, 18 and 19 apply or are extended by this section.

21. When an accident has occurred resulting in a temporary suspension of traffic, and either the original line and works have been rapidly restored to their original standard, or a temporary diversion has been laid for the purpose of restoring communication, the original line and works so restored, or the temporary diversion, as the case may be, may, in the absence of the Inspector, be opened for the public carriage of passengers, subject to the following conditions, namely:

(a) that the railway servant in charge of the works undertaken by reason of the accident has certified in writing that the opening of the restored line and works, or of the temporary diversion, will not in his opinion be attended with danger to the public using the line and works or the diversion; and

(b) that notice by telegraph of the opening of the line and works or the diversion shall be sent, as soon as may be, to the Inspector appointed for the railway.

22. The [Government] may make rules defining the cases in which, and in those cases the extent to which, the 23.—(1) When, after inspecting any open railway used for the public carriage of passengers, or any rolling-stock used thereon, an Inspector is of opinion that the use of the railway or of any specified rolling-stock will be attended with danger to the public using it, he shall state that opinion, together with the grounds therefor, to the 1[Government]; and the 1[Government] may thereupon order that the railway be closed for the public carriage of passengers, or that the use of the rolling-stock so specified be discontinued, or that the railway or the rolling-stock so specified be used for the public carriage of passengers on such conditions only as the 1[Government] may consider necessary for the safety of the public.

2(2) An order under sub-section (1) must set forth the grounds on which it is founded.

24.—(1) When 3[the railway] has been closed under the last foregoing section, it shall not be re-opened for the public carriage of passengers until it has been inspected and its re-opening sanctioned, in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

(2) When the 1[Government] has ordered under the last foregoing section that the use of any specified rolling-stock be discontinued, that rolling-stock shall not be used until an Inspector has reported that it is fit for use and the 1[Government] has sanctioned its use.

(3) When the 1[Government] has imposed under the last foregoing section any conditions with respect to the use of any railway or rolling-stock, those conditions shall be observed until they are withdrawn by the 1[Government].

25.—(1) The 1[Government] may, by general or special order, authorise the discharge of any of 4[its] functions under this Chapter by an Inspector, and may cancel any sanction or order given by an Inspector discharging any such function or attach thereto any condition which the 1[Government] might have imposed if the sanction or order had been given by 5[itself].

one or more of the local newspapers, or where there are no such newspapers, in such manner as the ¹[Government] may prescribe, sufficient of such animals or goods to produce a sum equal to the charge, and all expenses of such detention, notice and sale, including, in the case of animals, the expenses of the feeding, watering and tending thereof.

(3) Out of the proceeds of the sale the railway administration may retain a sum equal to the charge and the expenses aforesaid, rendering the surplus, if any, of the proceeds, and such of the animals or goods (if any) as remain unsold, to the person entitled thereto.

(4) If a person on whom a demand for any rate, terminal or other charge due from him has been made fails to remove from the railway within a reasonable time any animals or goods which have been detained under sub-section (1) or any animals or goods which have remained unsold after a sale under sub-section (2), the railway administration may sell the whole of them and dispose of the proceeds of the sale as nearly as may be under the provisions of sub-section (3).

(5) Notwithstanding anything in the foregoing sub-sections, the railway administration may recover by suit any such rate, terminal or other charge as aforesaid or balance thereof.

\[56.—(1)\] When any animals or goods have come into the possession of ²[the railway] administration for carriage or otherwise and are not claimed by the owner or other person appearing to the railway administration to be entitled thereto, the railway administration shall, if such owner or person is known, cause a notice to be served upon him, requiring him to remove the animals or goods.

(2) If such owner or person is not known, or the notice cannot be served upon him, or he does not comply with the requisition in the notice, the railway administration may within a reasonable time, subject to the provisions of any other enactment for the time being in force, sell the animals or goods as nearly as may be under the provisions of the last foregoing section, rendering the surplus, if any, of the proceeds of the sale to any person entitled thereto.

\[57.—\] Where any animals, goods or sale-proceeds in the possession of ²[the railway] administration are claimed by two or more persons, or the ticket or receipt given for the animals or goods is not forthcoming, the railway administration may withhold delivery of the animals, goods or sale-proceeds until the person entitled in its opinion to receive them has given an indemnity, to the satisfaction of the railway administration, against the claims of any other person with respect to the animals, goods or sale-proceeds.

58.—(1) The owner or person having charge of any goods which are brought upon [the railway] for the purpose of being carried thereon, and the consignee of any goods which have been carried on [the railway], shall, on the request of any railway servant appointed in this behalf by the railway administration, deliver to such servant an account in writing signed by such owner or person, or by such consignee, as the case may be, and containing such a description of the goods as may be sufficient to determine the rate which the railway administration is entitled to charge in respect thereof.

(2) If such owner, person or consignee refuses or neglects to give such an account, and refuses to open the parcel or package containing the goods in order that their description may be ascertained, the railway administration may, (a) in respect of goods which have been brought for the purpose of being carried on the railway, refuse to carry the goods unless in respect thereof a rate is paid not exceeding the highest rate which may be in force at the time on the railway for any class of goods or, (b) in respect of goods which have been carried on the railway, charge a rate not exceeding such highest rate.

(3) If an account delivered under sub-section (1) is materially false with respect to the description of any goods to which it purports to relate, and which have been carried on the railway, the railway administration may charge in respect of the carriage of the goods a rate not exceeding double the highest rate which may be in force at the time on the railway for any class of goods.

(4) If any difference arises between [the railway] servant and the owner or person having charge, or the consignee, of any goods which have been brought to be carried or have been carried on [the railway] respecting the description of goods of which an account has been delivered under this section, the railway servant may detain and examine the goods.

(5) If it appears from the examination that the description of the goods is different from that stated in an account delivered under sub-section (1), the person who delivered the account, or, if that person is not the owner of the goods, then that person and the owner jointly and severally, shall be liable to pay to the railway administration the cost of the detention and examination of the goods, and the railway administration shall be exonerated from all responsibility for any loss which may have been caused by the detention or examination thereof.

(6) If it appears that the description of the goods is not different from that stated in an account delivered under sub-section (1), the railway administration shall pay the cost of the detention and examination, and be responsible to the owner of the goods for any such loss as aforesaid.

59.—(1) No person shall be entitled to take with him, or to require [the railway] administration to carry, any dangerous or offensive goods upon [the railway].

(2) No person shall take any such goods with him upon [the railway] without giving notice of their nature to the station-master or other railway servant in charge of the place where he brings the goods upon the railway, or shall tender or deliver any such goods for carriage upon [the railway] without distinctly marking their nature on the outside of the package containing them or otherwise giving notice in writing of their nature to the railway servant to whom he tenders or delivers them.

(3) Any railway servant may refuse to receive such goods for carriage, and, when such goods have been so received without such notice as is mentioned in 2[sub-section (2)] having to his knowledge been given, may refuse to carry them or may stop their transit.

(4) If any railway servant has reason to believe any such goods to be contained in a package with respect to the contents whereof such notice as is mentioned in sub-section (2) has not to his knowledge been given, he may cause the package to be opened for the purpose of ascertaining its contents.

(5) Nothing in this section shall be construed to derogate from the Explosives Act, 1884, or any rule under that Act, and nothing in sub-sections (1), (3) and (4) shall be construed to apply to any goods tendered or delivered for carriage by order or on behalf of the Government or to any goods which an officer, soldier, sailor, 3[airman] or police-officer 4* * * may take with him upon [the railway] in the course of his employment or duty as such.

560. At every station at which [the railway] administration quotes a rate to any other station for the carriage of traffic other than passengers and their luggage, the railway servant appointed by the administration to quote the rate shall, at the request of any person, show to him at all reasonable times, and without payment of any fee, the rate books or other documents in which the rate is authorised by the administration or administrations concerned.

Carriage of Passengers

262. The Government may require any railway administration to provide and maintain in proper order, in any train worked by it which carries passengers, such efficient means of communication between the passengers and the railway servants in charge of the train as the Government has approved.

63. The railway administration] shall fix, subject to the approval of the Government, the maximum number of passengers which may be carried in each compartment of every description of carriage, and shall exhibit the number so fixed in a conspicuous manner inside or outside each compartment, in English or in Bengali.

64.—(1) On and after the first day of January, 1891, the railway administration] shall, in every train carrying passengers, reserve for the exclusive use of females one compartments at least of the lowest class of carriage forming part of the train.

(2) One such compartment so reserved shall, if the train is to run for a distance exceeding fifty miles, be provided with a closet.

LIMITATION OF EMPLOYMENT OF 1[THE RAILWAY] SERVANTS

Definitions.

71A. In this Chapter, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) the employment of 1[the railway] servant is said to be "essentially intermittent" when it has been declared to be so by the authority empowered in this behalf, on the ground that it involves long periods of inaction; during which the railway servant is on duty but is not called upon to display either physical activity or sustained attention; and

This Chapter to be deemed to have been inserted with effect on and from the twenty-sixth day of March, 1930, see the Railways (Amendment) Act, 1950 (Act XLI of 1950), s. 2.
71C.—(1) 3[The railway] servant, other than 3[the railway] servant whose employment is essentially intermittent, shall not be employed for more than sixty hours a week on the average in any month.

(2) 3[The railway] servant whose employment is essentially intermittent shall not be employed for more than eighty-four hours in any week.

(3) Subject to rules made under section 71E, temporary exemptions of railway servants from the provisions of sub-section (1) and sub-section (2) may be made—

(a) when such temporary exemptions are necessary to avoid serious interference with the ordinary working of the railway, in cases of accident, actual or threatened, or when urgent work is required to be done to the railway or to rolling-stock or in any emergency which could not have been foreseen or prevented; and

(b) in cases of exceptional pressure of work not falling within the scope of clause (a):

Provided that 3[the railway] servant exempted under clause (b) shall be paid for overtime at not less than one and a quarter times his ordinary rate of pay.

71D.—(1) 3[The railway] servant shall be granted, each week commencing on Sunday, a rest of not less than twenty-four consecutive hours:

Provided that this sub-section shall not apply to 3[the railway] servant whose employment is essentially intermittent, or to 3[the railway] servant to whom sub-section (2) applies.

(2) The 4[Government] may, by rules made under section 71E, specify the railway servants or classes of 3[the railway] servants to whom periods of rest may be granted on a scale less than that laid down in sub-section (1), and may prescribe the periods of rest to be granted to such railway servants.

(3) Subject to rules made under section 71E, temporary exemptions from the grant of periods of rest may be made in

CHAPTER VII

Responsibility of The Railway Administrations as Carriers

72.—(1) The responsibility of [the railway] administration for the loss, destruction or deterioration of animals or goods delivered to the administration to be carried by [the railway] shall, subject to the other provisions of this Act, be that of a bailee under sections 151, 152 and 161 of the Contract Act, 1872.

(2) An agreement purporting to limit that responsibility shall, in so far as it purports to effect such limitation, be void, unless it—

(a) is in writing signed by or on behalf of the person sending or delivering to the railway administration the animals or goods, and

(b) is otherwise in a [form approved by the [Government].

(3) Nothing * * * or in the Carriers Act, 1865, regarding the responsibility of common carriers with respect to the carriage of animals or goods, shall affect the responsibility as in this section defined of [the railway] administration.

73.—7[(1) The responsibility of [the railway] administration under the last foregoing section for the loss, destruction or deterioration of animals delivered to the administration to be carried on \[the railway\] shall not, in any case, exceed—

(a) in the case of elephants, one thousand five hundred \[Taka\] per head,

(b) in the case of horses, seven hundred and fifty \[taka\] per head,

(c) in the case of mules, camels or horned cattle, two hundred \[taka\] per head, and

(d) in the case of donkeys, sheep, goats, dogs or other animals, thirty \[taka\] per head, unless the person sending or delivering them to the administration caused them to be declared or declared them, at the time of their delivery for carriage by \[the railway\], to be respectively of higher value than one thousand five hundred, seven hundred and fifty, two hundred or thirty \[taka\] per head, as the case may be.

(2) Where such higher value has been declared, the railway administration may charge, in respect of the increased risk, a percentage upon the excess of the value so declared over the respective sums aforesaid.

(3) In every proceeding against \[the railway\] administration for the recovery of compensation for the loss, destruction or deterioration of any animal, the burden of proving the value of the animal, and, where the animal has been injured, the extent of the injury, shall lie upon the person claiming the compensation.

74. \[The railway\] administration shall not be responsible for the loss, destruction or deterioration of any luggage belonging to or in charge of a passenger unless \[the railway\] servant has booked and given a receipt therefor.

375.—(1) When any articles mentioned in the second schedule are contained in any parcel or package delivered to \[the railway\] administration for carriage by \[the railway\] and the value of such articles in the parcel or package exceeds \[three hundred \[taka\],

the railway administration shall not be responsible for the loss, destruction or deterioration of the parcel or package unless the person sending or delivering the parcel or package to the administration caused its value and contents to be declared or declared them at the time of the delivery of the parcel or package for carriage by [the railway], and, if so required by the administration, paid or engaged to pay a percentage on the value so declared by way of compensation for increased risk.

(2) When any parcel or package of which the value has been declared under sub-section (1) has been lost or destroyed or has deteriorated, the compensation recoverable in respect of such loss, destruction or deterioration shall not exceed the value so declared, and the burden of proving the value so declared to have been the true value shall, notwithstanding anything in the declaration, lie on the person claiming the compensation.

(3) [The railway] administration may make it a condition of carrying a parcel declared to contain any article mentioned in the second schedule that [the railway] servant authorised in this behalf has been satisfied by examination or otherwise that the parcel actually contains the article declared to be therein.

76. In any suit against [the railway] administration for compensation for loss, destruction or deterioration of animals or goods delivered to [the railway] administration for carriage by [the railway], it shall not be necessary for the plaintiff to prove how the loss, destruction or deterioration was caused.

77. A person shall not be entitled to a refund of an overcharge in respect of animals or goods carried by [the railway] or to compensation for the loss, destruction or deterioration of animals or goods delivered to be so carried, unless his claim to the refund or compensation has been preferred in writing by him or on his behalf to the railway administration within six months from the date of the delivery of the animals or goods for carriage by [the railway].

78. Notwithstanding anything in the foregoing provisions of this Chapter, [the railway] administration shall not be responsible for the loss, destruction or deterioration of any goods with respect to the description of which an account materially false has been delivered under sub-section (1) of section 58 if the loss, destruction or deterioration is in any way brought about by the false account, nor in any case for an amount exceeding the value of the goods if such value were calculated in accordance with the description contained in the false account.

(c) the derailing of any train carrying passengers or of any part of such a train;

(d) any accident of a description usually attended with loss of human life or with such grievous hurt as aforesaid or with serious injury to property;

(e) any accident of any other description which the 2[Government] may notify in this behalf in the 3[official Gazette];

the railway administration working the railway and, if the accident happens to a train belonging to any other railway administration, the other railway administration also shall, without unnecessary delay, send notice of the accident to the 2[Government] and to the Inspector appointed for the railway; and the station-master nearest to the place at which the accident occurred or, where there is no station master, the railway servant in charge of the section of the railway on which the accident occurred shall, without unnecessary delay, give notice of the accident to the Magistrate of the district in which the accident occurred, and to the officer in charge of the police-station within the local limits of which it occurred, or to such other Magistrate and police-officer as the 2[Government] appoints in this behalf.

84. The 2[Government] may make rules 4 consistent with this Act and any other enactment for the time being in force for all or any of the following purposes, namely:

(a) for prescribing the forms of the notices mentioned in the last foregoing section, and the particulars of the accident which those notices are to contain;

(b) for prescribing the class of accidents of which notice is to be sent by telegraph immediately after the accident has occurred;

(c) for prescribing the duties of 5[the railway] servants, police-officers, Inspectors and Magistrates on the occurrence of an accident.

486. Whenever any person injured by an accident on 5[the railway] claims compensation on account of the injury, any Court or person having by law or consent of parties authority to determine the claim may order that the person injured be examined by some duly qualified medical practitioner named in the order and not being a witness on either side, and may make such order with respect to the cost of the examination as it or he thinks fit.

CHAPTER IX

Penalties and Offences

Forfeitures by 5[the Railway] Companies

Offences by 5[the Railway] Servants

799. If 5[the railway] servant whose duty it is to comply with the provisions of section 60 negligently or wilfully omits to comply therewith, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty 8[taka].

100. If 5[the railway] servant is in a state of intoxication while on duty, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty 8[taka], or, where the improper performance of the duty would be likely to endanger the safety of any person travelling or being upon 5[the railway], with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year, or with fine, or with both.

8See foot-note 2 on page 352.
1101. If the railway servant, when on duty, endangers the safety of any person—

(a) by disobeying any general rule made, sanctioned, published and notified under this Act, or

(b) by disobeying any rule or order which is not inconsistent with any such general rule, and which such servant was bound by the terms of his employment to obey, and of which he had notice, or

(c) by any rash or negligent act or omission, he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years, or with fine which may extend to five hundred [Taka] or with both.

102. If the railway servant compels or attempts to compel, or causes, any passenger to enter a compartment which already contains the maximum number of passengers exhibited therein or thereon under section 63, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty [taka].

103. If a station-master or the railway servant in charge of a section of the railway omits to give such notice of an accident as is required by section 83 and the rules for the time being in force under section 84, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty [taka].

4104. If the railway servant unnecessarily—

(a) allows any rolling-stock to stand across a place where the railway crosses a public road on the level, or

(b) keeps a level-crossing closed against the public, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty [taka].

5105. If any return which is required by this Act is false in any particular to the knowledge of any person who signs it, that person shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred [taka], or with imprisonment which may extend to one year, or with both.

106. If a person requested under section 58 to give an account with respect to any goods gives an account which is materially false, he and, if he is not the owner of the goods, the owner also shall be punished with fine which may extend to ten [taka] for every maund or part of a maund of the goods, and the fine shall be in addition to any rate or other charge to which the goods may be liable.

107. If in contravention of section 59 a person takes with him any dangerous or offensive goods upon [the railway] or tenders or delivers any such goods for carriage upon [the railway], he shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred [taka] and shall also be responsible for any loss, injury or damage which may be caused by reason of such goods having been so brought upon the railway.

108. (1) If a passenger, without reasonable and sufficient cause, makes use of or interferes with any means provided by [the railway] administration for communication between passengers and the railway servants in charge of a train, he shall be punished with a fine which shall not be less than one hundred [taka] but not exceeding two hundred [taka] or with imprisonment for a period of one month or with both.

(2) If an adult passenger of a compartment in which an offence under sub-section (1) has been committed refuses, without reasonable and sufficient cause, to render any assistance, when such assistance is demanded of him, to [the railway] servant in identifying the passenger guilty of the offence, he shall be punished with fine which shall not be less than fifty [taka] and which may extend to one hundred [taka].

108A. If a passenger, having a proper pass or ticket with him or not, without reasonable and sufficient cause, alights from the train which has stopped at a place other than a station or a place appointed by the railway administration for passengers to leave the train and discontinues his journey, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty [taka].

109.—(1) If a passenger, having entered a compartment which is reserved by [the railway] administration for the use of another passenger, or which already contains the maximum

(2) If a passenger resists the lawful entry of another passenger into a compartment not reserved by the railway administration for the use of the passenger resisting or not already containing the maximum number of passengers exhibited therein or thereon under section 63, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty ¼[taka].

Smoking.

110.—(1) If a person, without the consent of his fellow-passengers, if any, in the same compartment, smokes in any compartment except a compartment specially provided for the purpose, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty ¼[taka].

(2) If any person persists in so smoking after being warned by any railway servant to desist, he may, in addition to incurring the liability mentioned in sub-section (1), be removed by any railway servant from the carriage in which he is travelling.

Defacing public notices.

2111. If a person, without authority in this behalf, pulls down or wilfully injures any board or document set up or posted by order of 3[the railway] administration on 3[the railway] or any rolling-stock, or obliterates or alters any of the letters or figures upon any such board or document, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty ¼[taka].

Fraudulently travelling or attempting to travel without proper pass or ticket.

4[112.—(1)] If a person, with intent to defraud 3[the railway] administration,—

(a) enters 5[or remains in any carriage on 3[the railway] in contravention of section 68], or

(b) uses or attempts to use a single pass or single ticket which has already been used on a previous journey or, in the case of a return ticket, a half thereof which has already been so used,

114. If a person sells or attempts to sell, or parts or attempts to part with the possession of, 1[any half] of a return ticket in order to enable any other person to travel therewith, or purchase such half of a return ticket, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty 2[taka], and, if the purchaser of such half of a return ticket travels or attempts to travel therewith, he shall be punished with an additional fine which may extend to the amount of the single fare for 3[the journey] authorised by the ticket.

115. That portion of any fine imposed under section 112 or the last foregoing section which represents the single fare therein mentioned shall, as the fine is recovered, be paid to the railway administration before any portion of the fine is credited to the Government.

116. If a passenger willfully alters or defaces his pass or ticket so as to render the date, number or any material portion thereof illegible, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty 2[taka].

117.—(1) If a person suffering from an infectious or contagious disorder enters or travels upon 4[the railway] in contravention of section 71, sub-section (2), he, and any person having charge of him upon the railway when he so entered or travelled thereon, shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty 2[taka], in addition to the forfeiture of any fare which either of them may have paid, and of any pass or ticket which either of them may have obtained or purchased, and may be removed from the railway by any railway servant.

(2) If any such railway servant as is referred to in section 71, sub-section (2), knowing that a person is suffering from any infectious or contagious disorder, willfully permits the person to travel upon 4[the railway] without arranging for his separation from other passengers, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred 2[taka].

118.—(1) If a passenger enters or leaves, or attempts to enter or leave, any carriage while the train is in motion, or elsewhere than at the side of the carriage adjoining the platform or other place appointed by the railway administration for passengers to enter or leave the carriage, or opens the side-door of any carriage while the train is in motion, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty [taka].

(2) If a passenger, after being warned by a [the railway] servant to desist, persists in travelling on the roof, steps or footboard of any carriage or on an engine, or in any other part of a train not intended for the use of passengers, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty [taka] and may be removed from the railway by any railway servant.

119. If a male person, knowing a carriage, compartment, room or other place to be reserved by [the railway] administration for the exclusive use of females, enters the place without lawful excuse, or, having entered it, remains therein after having been desired by any railway servant to leave it, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred [taka], in addition to the forfeiture of any fare which he may have paid and of any pass or ticket which he may have obtained or purchased, and may be removed from the railway by any railway servant.

120. If a person in any railway carriage or upon any part of [the railway]—

(a) is in a state of intoxication, or

(b) commits any nuisance or act of indecency, or uses obscene or abusive language, or

(c) wilfully and without lawful excuse interferes with the comfort of any passenger or extinguishes any lamp, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty [taka] in addition to the forfeiture of any fare which he may have paid and of any pass or ticket which he may have obtained or purchased, and may be removed from the railway by any railway servant.

3121. If a person wilfully obstructs or impedes any railway servant in the discharge of his duty, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred [taka].

3122.—(1) If a person unlawfully enters upon [the railway], he shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty [taka].
(Chapter IX.—Penalties and Offences.)

(2) If a person so entering refuses to leave the railway on being requested to do so by any railway servant, or by any other person on behalf of the railway administration, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty [taka], and may be removed from the railway by such servant or other person.

123. If a driver or conductor of a tramcar, omnibus, carriage, or other vehicle while upon the premises of [the railway] disobeys the reasonable directions of any railway servant or police-officer, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to twenty [taka].

124. In either of the following cases, namely:

(a) if a person knowing or having reason to believe that an engine or train is approaching along [the railway], opens any gate set up on either side of the railway across a road, or passes or attempts to pass, or drives or takes, or attempts to drive or take, any animal, vehicle or other thing across the railway, the person shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty [taka].

125.—(1) The owner or person in charge of any cattle straying on [the railway] provided with fences suitable for the exclusion of cattle shall be punished with fine which may extend to five [taka] for each head of cattle, in addition to any amount which may have been recovered or may be recoverable under the Cattle-trespass Act, 1871.

(2) If any cattle are willfully driven, or knowingly permitted to be, on any railway otherwise than for the purpose of lawfully crossing the railway or for any other lawful purpose, the person in charge of the cattle or, at the option of the railway administration, the owner of the cattle shall be punished with fine which may extend to ten [taka] for each head of cattle, in addition to any amount which may have been recovered or may be recoverable under the Cattle-trespass Act, 1871.

(3) Any fine imposed under this section may, if the Court so directs, be recovered in manner provided by section 25 of the Cattle-trespass Act, 1871.

(4) The expression “public road” in sections 11 and 26 of the Cattle-trespass Act, 1871, shall be deemed to include [the railway],

126. If a person unlawfully—

(a) puts or throws upon or across any railway any wood, stone or other matter or thing, or

(b) takes up, removes, loosens or displaces any rail, sleeper or other matter or thing belonging to any railway, or

(c) turns, moves, unlocks or diverts any points or other machinery belonging to any railway, or

(d) makes or shows, or hides, or removes, any signal or light upon or near to any railway, or

(e) does or causes to be done or attempts to do any other act or thing in relation to any railway, with intent, or with knowledge that he is likely, to endanger the safety of any person travelling or being upon the railway, he shall be punished with transportation for life or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to ten years.

2127. If a person unlawfully throws or causes to fall or strike at, against, into or upon any rolling-stock forming part of a train any wood, stone or other matter or thing with intent, or with knowledge that he is likely, to endanger the safety of any person being in or upon such rolling-stock or in or upon any other rolling-stock forming part of the same train, he shall be punished with transportation for life or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to ten years.

3128. If a person, by any unlawful act or by any wilful omission or neglect, endangers or causes to be endangered the safety of any person travelling or being upon any railway, or obstructs or causes to be obstructed or attempts to obstruct any rolling-stock upon any railway, he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years.

ARTICLES TO BE DECLARED AND INSURED

(See section 75)

(a) gold and silver, coined or uncoined, manufactured or unmanufactured;

(b) plated articles;

(c) cloths and tissue and lace of which gold or silver forms part, not being the uniform or part of the uniform of an officer, soldier, sailor, police-officer or person enrolled as a volunteer under "any law for the time being in force, or of any public officer, entitled to wear uniform;"
The Bangladesh Code seeks to present in handy volumes the amended, adapted and authentic version of all enacted laws in force in Bangladesh. These laws include enactments we have inherited from the past dating back to 1836 enacted by various authorities according to competence under the Constitution in force at the relevant time. The inherited laws are existing laws within the meaning of our Constitution.

2. Emergence of Bangladesh as an independent sovereign State called for extensive amendments, adaptations and repeal of existing laws as well as enactment of new laws designed to meet the changed and changing political, social and economic needs of the new State.

3. Scarcity, if not absence, of legal publications to give correct and up to date text of the laws in force in Bangladesh has made it extremely difficult for the courts, lawyers and others concerned not only to ascertain the current position of existing laws which have undergone extensive changes but also to keep track of the flow of new laws which are being continuously enacted. The need for a correct version of the statutes currently in force in a convenient form can hardly be over-emphasized. The Bangladesh Code is designed to meet that need.

4. The enactments included in the Code have been arranged in a chronological order and foot-notes have been added to indicate the changes made therein by subsequent legislation. The foot-notes also provide references to Statement of Objects and Reasons of the enactments, the reports of the Select Committees in the process of their enactment, the notifications regarding their commencement, extension and application and the rules and orders made thereunder. A chronological table has also been affixed to each volume with reference to the short titles of the enactments of the period covered by the volume.

5. The volumes in the Code seek to present the correct text of the enactments as modified up to date but the possibility of inadvertent or printing error cannot be ruled out. Intimation of any error is welcome and will be attended to.
